The Presenter:

Donna Cameron, PhD, Assistant Professor and Director of Service Learning is not limited to Georgetown. She is the founder and president of DCN Organizing Consultants LLC, is a wife, mother, musician, university professor and health educator.

In November 2003 Dr Cameron started a consulting business to address health and wellness in a holistic, novel way: through getting organized. Her business began by focusing on organizing closets and wardrobes. Over time the business has evolved into organizing other spaces, information, and projects.

Dr. Cameron is a member of the National Association of Professional Organizers (NAPO.) As a NAPO member she has access to capabilities and resources that may not otherwise be available to individual or corporate clients. She specializes in clutter repair, closet organization, and workshops on getting organized at home and work.

The Moderator:

Mary Coleman Spring is the Senior HR Generalist at Georgetown University. She has more than 15 years of resourceful, responsive human resources leadership that effectively promotes positive, productive relationships and advances organizational objectives. She was appointed start-up Director in three nonprofits - built human resources from steps to systems. Successfully directs professional and administrative staffs as large as 60 or as small as 5, serving organizations both large (3,000) and small (800).
